

Planning under the New Localism Agenda – Seminar

Thursday 9 September 2010
12.30 pm – 2 pm
Bond Pearce, 3 Temple Quay, Temple Back East
Bristol, BS1 6DZ

Event sponsored by:

What does the abolition of the Regional Spatial Strategy mean for the Property and Construction industry and how will the new Localism Agenda affect development?

This seminar will review the planning system and will provide an insight to the key changes, which will affect all disciplines within the profession. We welcome the following professionals to lead us through this post election review:

- Richard Guyatt - Partner at Bond Pearce LLP; and
- Simon Prescott – Partner at Barton Willmore LLP.

Topics covered will include:

- Planning Framework following the abolition of Regional Spatial Strategies;
- Collaborative Local Planning (including a return to local plans);
- Community Infrastructure Levy and the proposed new tariff;
- The presumption in favour of sustainable development
- The Infrastructure Planning Commission and its proposed replacement

The cost of the seminar includes a buffet lunch served from 12.30 pm. Male colleagues and contacts are invited to join Women in Property for this seminar.

To Apply: Please fill out and return the attached form together with your cheque (payable to "Women in Property") by Monday 6 September to:
