'Networking Parents' lunches are a chance to take some time out of your hectic schedule and to talk to other working parents and parents to be. They can also enable women and men on parental leave to stay in touch with colleagues and contacts.

The format is very relaxed and there is no charge for this event, just pay for your meal on the day.

If you are about to go on maternity leave, you can freeze your Women in Property membership.

To Apply: So that we can confirm numbers with the restaurant, please contact:

Women in Property has, through our Mid-Career Taskforce, been working with organisations to support and encourage more women into senior roles and to address the hurdles facing women returners.
