Knowledge is power, so the saying goes, but if we are not able to share and develop that knowledge how powerful is it? The way we work is constantly evolving and more than ever we are balancing time and fee constraints to deliver projects in our busy working lives, leaving very little time to share our knowledge.

Gleeds is delighted to host and sponsor this event: join us for a networking lunch after which David Pearce of Gleeds will lead the Knowledge Sharing presentation, expanding on his own research, its importance and how it needs to work in our day to day lives.
